Saving and Importing References into EndNote

Dissertations and Thesis Worldcat

1. Go to Worldcat Dissertations and conduct your search.

2. Mark records that you wish to import using the box on the left of each record.

3. Click on the Export button at the top.

4. Ensure that the Endnote radio button is marked along with Export Marked records from this search, then click on the Export button.

5. When the pop up box appears click open.

6. When the import filter box opens scroll down and choose Worldcat Diss (OCLC).

7. When the import is complete, only the newly imported reference will show in the Library window. This is an ‘intermediary’ stage which gives you the opportunity to modify the reference as required before it is aggregated into the main library. You can check individual records to ensure the data has been imported into the correct fields, or add notes.

8. Once you have made all the changes you need, click on All Reference to see your complete library.
