Saving and Importing References into EndNote

Scitation

1. Go to Scitation and conduct your search.

2. Mark records that you wish to import using the Box to the left of each record.

3. Change the drop down menu at the top of the results and change Article Options to Endnote ® (generic) then click Go.

4. A window will appear, click Open

5. When the import is complete, only the newly imported reference will show in the Library window. This is an ‘intermediary’ stage which gives you the opportunity to modify the reference as required before it is aggregated into the main library. You can check individual records to ensure the data has been imported into the correct fields, or add notes.

6. Once you have made all the changes you need, click on All Reference to see your complete library.
